Guest Speaker: Veronique Derschow – ‘Holiday getaway for veterans – Albany At Ease’

Lunch: Boston Brewery

Hi everyone,

As this is my last newsletter, I would like to thank you all for your patience while I learned the ways of a computer. You will be in good hands when Susan Lane takes over. Hope you all enjoyed our visit to Pardelup Prison. I thought it was good to see Ghow they run a prison by the prisoners and earn a living while they learn skills for their future. If only all prisons were run like this one. Thank you Helena for organizing it. I’m sure you are all looking forward to rain for our dry gardens. Hopefully that cyclone up north will send some rain here. Bye for now. Trish

Two 90 year old men, Paddy and Mick have been friends all of their lives. When it's clear that Paddy is dying, Mick visits him every day.

One day Mick says, "we both loved football all our lives, and we played football on Saturdays together for so many years.

Please do me one favour, when you get to Heaven, somehow you must let me know if there's football there."

Paddy looks up at Mick from his death bed and says: "Mick you've been my best friend for many years. If it's at all possible, I'll do this favour for you."

Shortly after that, Paddy passes on.

At midnight a couple of nights later, Mick is awakened from a sound sleep by a blinding flash of white light and a voice calling out to him, "Mick... Mick..."

"Who is it?" Asks Mick sitting up suddenly. "Who is it?"

"Mick. It's me, Paddy..."

"You're not Paddy, Paddy just died."

"I'm telling you, it's me, Paddy." insists the voice.

"Paddy Where are you?"

"In heaven", he replies. "I have some really good news and a little bad news."

"Tell me the good news first," says Mick .

"The good news," Paddy says, "is that there's football in heaven. Better yet, all of our old friends who died before us are here, too.

Better than that, we're all young again. And best of all, we can play football all we want, and we never get tired."

"That's fantastic," says MICK. "It's beyond my wildest dreams! So what could possibly be the bad news?" "You're in the team for Saturday. "
